ABOUT THE PEOPLE

Kangean Island is an island in the country of Indonesia, one of the parts of the Madura Islands of East Java. The island is divided into two parts: East Kangean and West Kangean. Kangean Island is located close to Bali Island and is a short distance as well from Lombok Island.

The island holds great tourism potential. There is a lot of open area, and those interested in more adventure and unrestricted areas for activities may find themselves more at home here.

Simply traveling from West Kangean to East Kangean will give one a taste of the atmosphere and natural setting of the island. There are natural forests mixed with the beaches on the Java Sea. In West Kangean, one can also purchase the wood handicrafts made by the locals.

There is a thick forest in East Kangean that contains many animals and beautiful birds. Monkeys, komodos, and snakes are found here in abundance. Indeed, it seems that the island of Kangean could be a popular future tourist destination for many. Perhaps through this tourism more information could be learned about the people.

POSSIBLE WAYS TO HELP

Tourism industry could be very beneficial to the people here, bringing in much revenue and boosting the economy of this people group.

English teachers are needed in many places in Indonesia. Those able to teach could be very helpful to those wanting to learn among the Kangean.
